Sutton Fire Department: reflecting talent and commitment

By Alec G. Belisle

SUTTON - Sutton Fire Chief John Peterson is delighted with the permanent acquisition of a first responder trailer which was given to the town by Marane Oil Company to address fuel spills. This response vehicle joins Sutton Fire Department's four Forest Fire trucks as specialty service vehicles, all of which have cost the taxpayers very little. Peterson was careful to explain that this equipment is not meant for all hazardous materials but more of the fuel spill variety. Other hazardous materials require special equipment, including protective suits.

The new trailer was owned by Marane and stored at headquarters with the understanding that the fire department could use it for any of their emergencies as long as they replaced the materials they used. The terms of the agreement have now been reversed, according to Peterson, and Marane is invited to use the materials should a spill occur as long as it replaces the supplies used.

Marane Oil Environmental Manager Thomas Renihan explained that Marane donated the trailer because their petroleum carriers now carry first response materials on their vehicles. The materials are similar to those found in the spill trailer, and Marane thought that since Rt. 146 cuts through so many miles of Sutton over which many petroleum trailers pass, the Town has a use for it.

Firefighters Jim Galanos and Paul Bessette in front of the Forestry 2 truck.

Renihan and Peterson described the equipment housed in the trailer and how it is used. On the trailer in enormous, plastic bags are coils of large and small white booms which are used to surround, contain, and begin to absorb spills on ground or water. Using these booms could prevent spills from entering drainage pipes or flowing into open water or land and can contain the spill in an area which then can be siphoned off by hazardous materials professionals. Once the spill is corrected, these booms are placed in 55 gallon drums and disposed of as hazardous materials.

The trailer also contains bags of "Speedy Dry," absorbent material similar to kitty litter. This material can be used in conjunction with the booms to absorb spills and leakages. Also equipping the trailer are stacks of high absorbent spill cloths which, because of their shape, can be placed in a wide variety of configurations and hard to reach places. These cloths also float on water and, since oil and water do not mix, could be used to absorb some of a spill on the surface of water.

Peterson said the trailer will allow the Sutton Fire Department to engage in a process referred to as "mitigating the situation." "It protects the environment because it does not allow the spill to expand beyond that point," he said. "When the professionals arrive, the first response team backs off and lets them handle it from there." While some fire districts have response teams, Sutton's district does not.

Members of the Fire Department like Lieutenant George Peladeau have been trained in the execution of these materials and are prepared to employ them if and when they are needed.

Peterson is also very proud of the members of his department who, mostly at their own expense, have literally built their own brush fire trucks. Peterson took the Chronicle to each company where shiny red pick-ups and flat beds stand ready to respond to brush fire calls. Peterson showed pictures of the vehicles before members of each company restored, renovated, and reconfigured salvage vehicles into impressive pieces of fire fighting equipment.

Sutton firefighters donated their time to raise money for the projects and then donated their

MILLBURY - Youngsters in Jerilyn Stead's Extended Kindergarten classes visited the moon last month. Prior to the voyage, they learned many facts concerning the moon from "Mr. Moon Man," who visited the classroom. He told the children about the moon's atmosphere, phases of the moon, and the necessary preparations that you would have to make in order to travel to the moon. Students then constructed their own spaceship and helmets and listed the supplies that they would need to take along on the voyage.

All in the family

Proud parents and grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Graveline, of Cedar Ave. in Millbury, supplied a picture of their son Stanley Graveline and his three sons Stephen, Stanley Jr., and Jeffrey, all of whom are graduates of Worcester Polytechnic Institute. According to the proud grandfather, the Graveline family was recognized at a graduation dinner sponsored by WPI as being the only family in the college's history to have a father and three sons graduate from Worcester Tech. The tradition began with the graduation of Stanley, the father, in 1954 .

Decision based on educational priorities

To the Editor:

This is in reference to Mr. Newton's February 18 letter concerning the Sutton school committee.

He claims that the committee was not willing to "openly discuss" the administrative structure desired by Mr. Kourey. On the contrary and before a large audience, there was a lengthy and open discussion on that very subject. This followed Mrs. Roach's motion that the administrative structure in the junior-senior high school be one principal (8-12), and two assistant principals: one for grades 6-8 and one for grades 9-12. While Mr. Kourey made no specific motion concerning his desired plan, he was certainly given the opportunity to openly express his opinions during the course of the discussion.

The final vote on this motion (3-2) did not "maintain the standard policy" as Mr. Newton suggests. There will continue to be three administrators, one being the principal. The assistant positions have been changed to specifically designate one administrator for grades 6-8, the other for 9-12. While it is true that the town was "denied" the change desired by Mr. Kourey, an alternate, but equally viable plan was installed by a majority vote.

The junior-senior high is currently operating with two administrators, Mr. Filipkowski and Mr. Paul, who are to be highly commended for their efforts. However, the committee has been made aware through correspondence and from statements made at the meeting by the acting principal that the junior-senior high is administratively understaffed with the current configuration. Our first priority must be to adequately staff the buildings, which was accomplished with the passage of Mrs. Roach's motion.

This does not rule out the future establishment of an assistant superintendent/curriculum coordinator. Mrs. Roach and myself verbally agreed with Mr. Kourey that this position would be a positive addition if financially feasible. The Feb. 8 decision was not "regressive," but based on educational priorities.

Millbury Selectmen's Meeting Digest

Questions raised over recycling

By Edward J. Cooney

MILLBURY - The Selectmen's February 23 meeting began with a request from the Director of Council on Aging, Judith O'Connor, for the Board's signature on a grant application in the amount of $1,620. The grant is being sought to repair holes in the tile at the Asa Waters Mansion which has created a safety hazard for people who come to and work at the Council On Aging facility. The Board approved her request.

Building Inspector's budget

Administrative Assistant Earl Chase asked the Board to confirm a position taken in 1987 to consolidate some budget items under the various town inspectors to one budget item under the Building Inspector's budget. He said the Finance Committee (FinCom) has asked for a confirmation of a vote the Board said was taken to make the Building Inspector's Office one that encompasses all the inspectors.

Chase reported that no vote to that purpose was taken but, he said, there was a vote to put some items such as mileage and secretarial assistance for all inspectors under the Building Inspector's budget. "The Finance Committee is willing to do it that way but needs your assurances on that," said Chase.

The Board voted 4-0 to send that assurance to FinCom.

Tree Warden's Budget

Tree Warden William Berthiaume met with the Board concerning his budget. The discussion centered on the budget being depleted due to recent snowstorms which required the cleanup of trees, limbs and debris left in the wake of the storms. The figure quoted by Berthiaume amounted to $8,000. The town is eligible to receive reimbursements up to 89% from Federal and State sources.

Cristo noted that to get through the rest of the fiscal year, Berthiaume would have to ask FinCom for a transfer of funds from the reserve account with the understanding that the monies would be returned to the general treasury following reimbursements.

If insufficient funds are available in the reserve account, a special town meeting would have to be called within the annual town meeting.

The Board opted to delay discussions on incorporating the work of the Tree Warden into the highway department to another meeting when the Highway Surveyor can be present and when Selectman Roland Lachance is present since he suggested the move.

Cristo noted that the position of Arborist, as a consultant, could possibly be retained.

146 Project

Cristo announced that the Worcester Chamber of Commerce would like to meet with Board representatives to discuss the proposed Rte 146/20/95 interchange. "I guess they are looking for our support," Cristo said.

Selectman Bernard Plante, who serves as the board's representative on the Rte 146 Citizens Advisory Committee, said he has already discussed the board's position with Chamber officials.

"They can talk all they want," Cristo said. "They have to put some meat on the table." He also said the Citizen's Advisory Committee chaired by Representative Richard Moore of Uxbridge is a "paper tiger" and has done nothing to mitigate the problems and concerns of the town of Millbury.

Cristo then referred to a comment made in the press by Moore recently as counter productive. According to Cristo, Moore said the Millbury Selectmen are trying to extort $1M for their support of the project.

Chase said he attended the most recent meeting of the Citizens Advisory Committee. He said the committee listened to the concerns of business owners from Worcester who expressed fear over the possible loss of jobs and the devaluation of property if their properties are not part of the proposed land takings.

Cristo suggested that maybe the Town should look to the Massachusetts Turnpike for some ideas on how to recoup the loss of tax revenues from the land takings in Millbury. "The proposal for a park and ride location in Millbury on Rte 20 could be one way, if agreed upon, to replace revenues lost," he said.

Plante agreed that the Advisory Committee is not addressing Millbury's problems.

"We are not trying to hold the project up," Cristo said, "we are just trying to replace revenues. The article cast aspersions on us." Cristo said he was shocked over the comments made by Moore in the article.

Leslie Lane resident Syl Bourdeau suggested that the Board get its facts and figures together and send them to the Telegram and Gazette. "If they are concerned with getting the facts and viewpoints out, they will print it," he said.

"It probably would be cut," Cristo replied, "since in the past there hasn't been complete coverage of the Town's concerns in the T&G. Maybe it can be done in the local press."

Resident Albert Couture told the board to seek the help of State Rep. Paul Kollios. "If anyone can make a stink about this," he said, "Paul Kollios can. He can do something, I believe that." Cristo replied that the problem is not with local officials. "They are sympathetic," he said. "It's some of the appointees at the state level who would rather do business behind closed doors and won't come here to a public meeting and discuss this in open meeting. The impression I get from them is that you don't cut a deal in open meetings, you do it in back rooms. That's doing business as usual at the state level. They are afraid to say anything in open meetings. What kind of state officials are they?" he asked.

Recycling Grant

Board of Health members Jim Morin and Tom Brown were present to seek the Selectmen's signatures on a request to designate the town as a Municipal Recycler. Morin cited efforts made by George D'Auteuil, the town's recycling coordinator and owner of Frank Rubbish Removal, in filing the application seeking approval from the Department of Environmental Protection for the designation. The designation would allow the town to go through Wheelabrator without having its trash inspected since the town would be doing curbside recycling pickup.

Cristo raised several questions relative to the appointment of D'Auteuil as Recycling Coordinator since he operates a rubbish removal business in the community.

Morin said D'Auteuil receives no salary and that the recycling curbside pick-up would be at no cost to the town.

Cristo said D'Auteuil would receive benefits when he sells the recycled goods. "Since he was appointed by you, the Board of Health, and is thus a municipal employee as well as a private hauler, there is, in my opinion, a conflict of interest." He suggested that Town Counsel be asked for an opinion as well as the State Ethics Commission. "He can't be a municipal agent and also be the hauler in private business. You can't serve two masters in this case," Cristo said.

"He has the expertise," Morin said, "we don't."

Cristo reiterated that an individual who is an agent for the town cannot derive income from that position. "I am not questioning the integrity or intentions of anyone involved," he said.

D'Auteuil said the proposal for recycling came about before the present members were on the Board of Health. "A proposal was asked for and an offer from Frank Rubbish Removal was presented as the only one bringing a plan forward. The appointment as Coordinator of Recycling for the town came after that," D'Auteuil said. "You can keep the title. It was just to point to a certain direction the town was going to go. We did what we thought was right."

D'Auteuil then asked the Board to look at the application as separate from the coordinator issue and sign it so the town can go forward with the request.

"Time is running close," Morin said, as Chase suggested the Board of Health reapply without the coordinator's signature.

Cristo noted that the signature on a cover letter to the state is on a letterhead from Frank Rubbish Removal. "I would suggest a ruling come from town counsel on this," he said. "You don't want this kind of problem. It's explicit in the law and it is a serious matter with civil penalties. I am not saying there was any intent but that it was done out of ignorance."

D'Auteuil replied that the Department of Environmental Protection has never expressed any reservations, "so there must be ignorant people all around us." He remarked that a recycling grant has already been approved and that DEP officials never said anything about a possible conflict. He said the letter with his signature was included to show his signature as recycler\coordinator, d/b/a as Frank Rubbish Removal.

Cristo said he could not sign the application until the issue is ironed out.

D'Auteuil asked how he should go about getting an opinion.

Chase said an opinion from the Ethics Commission has to come from the individual potentially in conflict.

D'Auteuil then said that the position of coordinator should be eliminated if it is going to inhibit the matter from going forward. "You, as a vendor," Cristo aid, "benefit directly from your position as being the town coordinator. There is also the question of submission of this application on your private company's stationery."

Selectman Donald Gauthier told D'Auteuil that he could get an opinion from the Ethics Commission's legal staff over the telephone and then ask for the opinion to be put in writing.

Brown explained that the Board of Health is trying to get the town approved as a Municipal Recycler.

Selectman Gerry Bleau said he was getting confused over all the information coming out, and both he and Cristo agreed that a broader discussion of the issues is needed.

D'Auteuil suggested that the selectmen attend one of the Board of Health meetings. "I agree that one hand doesn't know what the other is doing," he said. "We have to do what is best for the town."

"That's right," Cristo said, "and do it aboveboard.

Morin also suggested that town counsel be asked for an opinion. "This was all done in good faith," said D'Auteuil.

Gauthier said D'Auteuil's proposal would be good for the town and it "should not go down the tubes."

D'Auteuil, noting that he was somewhat disheartened by tonight's discussion, said his proposal was done in good faith.

Syl Bourdeau, of 10 Leslie Lane, said Chapter 268A of MGL states that an individual in municipal government should avoid even the appearance of a conflict of interest. "This could well be the case here," he said.

Brown noted that the deadline for submitting the proposal is March 15.

Cristo said there is still time to straighten out the matter.

Board of Health members asked that they be scheduled first on next week's agenda.

Class 2 License

The Board deferred a request for a discussion on an application for a Class 2 automobile sales license submitted by Ambitious Auto for a location on Rte 146. Cristo said he wants the application run by the town planner to see if it will conform with the existing zoning by-laws. The item will be placed on the next agenda.

Paul Revere

Chase said he received a letter from Robert Allard of 21 Grafton Street who has volunteered to serve on a committee set up by vote of town meeting last year to investigate issues relative to the permitting process for the Paul Revere Condominium Project.

Chase said that Allard indicated that he is familiar with building codes and has worked on installing septic systems. He also said that Allard had performed some work at Paul Revere for Forrow Builders, developers of the project.

Cristo said the Board will have to look carefully at the background of those volunteering "as we may have another problem." He also emphatically told Syl Bourdeau, who has been pushing for the implementation of this committee, that no appointments will be made until the litigation with the Condo Association is concluded. Bourdeau asked to read into the record a letter he was giving the Board of Selectmen tonight indicating that he had not received information requested over ten days ago relative to the town's health

Beacon Hill Roll Call

BOSTON - This week's "Beacon Hill Roll Call" records the vote of Senator Matthew Amorello (R-Grafton) on one roll call last week and the votes of Representatives Richard Moore (D-Uxbridge) and Paul Kollios (D-Millbury) on roll calls from recent House sessions on the education reform bill.

SENATE

BOSTON GARDEN (S 1492) Senate 37-0, approved and Governor Weld signed a new version of the bill allowing construction of the new $160 million Boston Garden. The House passed the bill on a voice vote. Supporters said this compromise version was acceptable to the legislature and the developers and will pave the way for completion of construction in September 1995. They claimed the legislature, through its oversight and tough negotiations, saved the taxpayers some $30 million. Although there were no opponents to the bill, many legislators in the past week had accused the leadership of micromanaging the project to the point where a deal was almost permanently jeopardized.

Amorello voted for the Garden bill.

THE HOUSE

DISMISS PRINCIPALS (H 801) House 117-38, approved an amendment providing that only a superintendent may dismiss a principal. Amendment supporters said this insures accountability and will keep politics out of any dismissal decision. Opponents said the current law allowing a school committee to dismiss a principal provides a sense of balance and should be retained. Moore and Kollios voted for the amendment providing that only a superintendent may dismiss a principal.

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING (H 801) House 106-44, rejected an amendment striking a section prohibiting school principals from being represented in collective bargaining. Amendment supporters argued principals need the protection of being allowed to belong to a collective bargaining group or they will be unfairly at the mercy of superintendents. Opponents said principals should be considered managers and must be more responsible to superintendents. They argued there are other protections for principals in the bill. Moore and Kollios voted against allowing principals to be represented in collective bargaining.

CHARTER SCHOOLS (H 801) House 97-53, rejected an amendment providing that the state, rather than local school districts, pay charter schools the per pupil cost for any student who attends one of these experimental, innovative schools established in the bill. Amendment supporters said it is unfair to require local schools to pay and lose these important funds. Opponents said if pupils go to another school it is simply logical that the money should follow them. Moore voted for local schools to pay. Kollios voted for the state to pay.

FUNDING (H 801) House 108-46, rejected an amendment allowing communities in fiscal 1994 to reject new state education aid and not have to increase their local education aid as mandated in the bill. In future years, the amendment would provide that if a local community meets educational performance standards established by the Board of Education, the city or town would be relieved of providing new local education aid but still able to collect the new state aid. Amendment supporters said it is illogical to require communities to shift money from other municipal needs to education if the community is already meeting newly established standards. Opponents said the amendment kills key sections of the bill and will allow communities to opt out of providing increased local aid. Moore and Kollios voted to require communities to provide the new education aid.

Shaw Intramurals

MILLBURY - The second session of Shaw Intramurals concluded February 11. The four week session, which featured basketball and floor hockey, serviced 740 Shaw children. The session also provided leadership training for 19 sixth graders and 16 fifth graders as the older students refereed each other's games and worked with the younger children in skill development through the use of leadup games. The move to use more fifth graders sets the stage for an experienced core of leaders for next year. The program, open to all Shaw students, is sponsored by the Millbury Parent's Club and has been very well received by the children.

Session III, the year's final, will begin Monday, February 22, as the students switch to their late-winter/early-spring leadup games of battle and newcombe for the younger children, volleyball for the older, and team handball for all groups. The session will continue through the fourth week of March.

Open Chorus Auditions

BOSTON - The Greater Bostonians, "Music Makers for the Jimmy Fund," will hold private auditions for choral voices for their second season of performances. Those selected will join an orchestra and chorus for a season of singing in concert halls and on television. Singers may select their own audition material. Sight reading is required. To audition between February 1 and June 1, call Riley Hodder at 508-694-9928.

Volunteer Opportunities

Tri-Valley Elder Services offers opportunities for volunteers who have a desire to work with homebound frail elders. Are you willing to visit an elder in your community for one hour a week as a friendly visitor? When isolated elders have a person to talk with about the events of a day, or someone to read mail or the local newspapers, they derive renewed energy.

Are you willing to deliver a noontime meal? The hot meal provides nutrition along with the pleasant smile the volunteer delivers.

Companion volunteers are people over the age of 60 who offer medical appointment escorts, do errands and provide respite for family care givers. The companion position offers a stipend reimbursement for each volunteer. To volunteer, call Elaine McNanna at 278-2478 or 1-800-462-4225.

It will say "I love you" long after the roses have wilted.

Why give a gift that'll be gone in a week, when you can give her a locket or heart pendant from Ballou, in 14 karat gold, overlay or sterling silver?

Financial institutions face the same responsibility when they invest your deposits. They can invest locally — in loans to help their neighbors and local communities.

Or they can ship your deposits to another area — which doesn't help you or the local economy at all.

Town awarded recycling grant

MILLBURY - Recycling efforts in the Town of Millbury received a major boost recently when the state's Department of Environmental Protection awarded the town $13,475 to purchase recycling equipment. The grant for the funds was submitted by the Millbury Board of Health.

"These funds will provide Millbury with the equipment needed to aggressively promote local recycling programs," said state Senator Matthew J. Amorello (R-Grafton) in announcing the grant.

The money will be used to purchase roll-off bins or large plastic dumpsters used for collecting recyclable materials, as well as curbside blue boxes where residents can deposit household items such as glass and aluminum.

Another Point of View

Where There's a Will, There's a Way!

By Lawrence Moore

Today's substantial drop in consumer confidence, along with a revision downward of the January figures, is a horrible indictment of government and industry. What it says is, "In spite of all the speeches, plans and projections, in spite of Federal Reserve Chairman Greenspan's endorsement, and in spite of the substantial approval ratings given to President Clinton....we don't trust you to get the job done."

Is their cynicism misplaced? Is there no hope for betterment? This deep-seated concern is aggravated by the general recognition of the need to do something about working off the deficit, and there seems to be general acceptance of the need for some sort of "contribution". Deep down, however, the populace is disturbed, apprehensive and just plain scared.

Are they right, and if they are, does it have to be this way?

The last five years have seen changes that are minuscule compared to what we need to see in the next five, and the doubt that we will see these changes is what is destroying consumer confidence.

The American auto industry might have sat back and been replaced by imports, as was the consumer electronics industry. First, Ford changed its management and production philosophies and procedures, saying, believing in and delivering on the slogan "Quality Is Job One." Then Chrysler broke with the industry's traditional separation of design, engineering and sales functions, integrated formerly independent and competitive areas into coherent teams, and produced the new Jeep and the new Chrysler cars. General Motors' Directors said, "enough," fired the CEO, and embraced an up-to-date manufacturing process, turning in the first quarterly operating profit in years.

Sears employs a department store executive to head up its merchandising and drops its catalog. Chairman and CEO Brennan will soon be promoted, freeing the new hires from his yoke of tradition and ineffectiveness. IBM is splitting itself into manageable parts. American Express gets a new chief. Chairmen and presidents are losing their jobs in unprecedented numbers.

Industry is not alone. A new approach by a radical principal keeps children in school, learning, in New Jersey. A universal Health Plan crops up in Rochester, New York and in the state of Washington. The city of Philadelphia, under the leadership of a non-conformist mayor, in one year pulls back from the brink of disaster, without increasing taxes. Mayors in Cleveland, Chicago and Indianapolis have made similar progress, without, as Mayor Flynn has, asking President Clinton for money.

Candidate Clinton was right. We need change. But halfway measures, half-baked plans and palliative proposals won't get the job done. Progressive concepts must be combined with tremendous courage, the promise fulfilled. Examples of success abound. The country is willing. Our President, so far, and the Legislature, for sure, have not shown the will to change. Government as we know it does not have to continue inevitably. It must, however, want to change. Where there's a will, there's a way!

From My Window on Farnsworth Court

By "Pastor Rae" Cameron

It has been one of those "you've got be kidding" weeks for me. Just to be sure, my oncologist sent me for a bone scan. As I was laying on the table, I mentioned to the programmer that it sure is marvelous what he can do. There was a hospital in Maine that had an addition, but when thy were done they had less bed space because the addition was for more technical machinery. The technician wanted to know where in Maine I was from, and I said, "Augusta. I used to live up in Jefferson, Maine."

"No!" he exclaimed. "I have a house in Jefferson, right on Lake Damariscotta."

Well, the bone scan was no bother from then on as we talked about Jefferson and its people in particular. What used to be a terrifying experience for me turned out to be most pleasant.

Then there was the meeting of the Central Baptist Ministers where we had a speaker from "Daybreak, Inc., an organization dealing with domestic violence. While enjoying lunch, I asked the speaker where she was from, and she answered, "Millbury."

"Where in Millbury," I inquired.

"Prospect Street, right across from Saint Brigid's," she responded.

"You live right behind me," I announced.

Domestic violence is a real serious issue, and I suspect that we here in Millbury and Sutton are not immune. One pastor announced that over half of his congregation had been involved. Thank God there are those who are dealing with this issue.

If you need help, there is a hotline 755-9030, and God bless you if any of us clergy can be of assistance. Amen.

Amorello named Legislator of the Year

WORCESTER - State Senator Matthew J. Amorello (R-Grafton) has been named Legislator of the Year by the Worcester County Bar Association. The award is presented annually to a Worcester County legislator who has exemplified leadership in the administration of justice.

"Senator Amorello has demonstrated outstanding leadership, and has made significant contributions in this area," said the Association's President, Edward P. Ryan, Jr. "His work on the conference committee that crafted the court reorganization bill and his efforts to repeal our state's no-fault automobile insurance system are just two areas where Senator Amorello has shown concern with administration of justice in the Commonwealth."

"It is always a privilege to be recognized by the people you represent," said Amorello. "I am especially proud of this honor because it demonstrates to me that my efforts to improve our state's legal system have not gone unnoticed. I intend to continue working as a state Senator to bring positive changes to our system of justice. I want to live up to the title of 'Legislator of the Year' not just this year, but for as long as the people of my district see fit to put their faith in me as their state Senator."

Chase said he had not as yet but would work on the matter.

Cristo told Chase that he could expect to hear from Igoe.

Chase apologized for the delay.

Correspondence

Clerk Gerry Bleau read a letter from the parents of two children who commended the Police Department for their assistance in locating two children.

A copy of a letter from Building Inspector Rene Morin to Leo Bolivar was read. The letter relates to Morin's findings on a complaint from Bolivar concerning the parking of trucks at Grafton Road Auto Repair. Morin advised Bolivar that if he did not agree with the findings of the Building Inspector's office, he could pursue the matter through the appeal process with the Millbury Zoning Board of Appeals.

Cristo remarked that, as far as he was concerned, the Building Inspector still has not issued his findings since his report is not complete. "We gave him (Morin) 30 days to review his initial findings and get back to us," Cristo said. "If that doesn't happen, then we will have to have a discussion with him on this."

The meeting adjourned at 8:55 P.M.

Be a Bandstander

MILLBURY - The Friends of the Millbury Bandstand are accepting donations for the construction of a bandstand in Millbury. "A bandstand will not only enhance the image of our community," the Friends said, "but will afford a permanent structure for activities such as summer concerts, speeches, prom and wedding pictures, art exhibits, bake sales, and other programs sponsored by various organizations in town."

Several months ago, the Friends sent a mailing to local businesses, committees, and organizations. The response was generous and very much appreciated. The attention will now be focused on an appeal to the general public to assist in reaching the Friends' goal.

"It is not our intention to request any funds from the town," said the Friends. "We hope to have the bandstand built entirely from private donations. That's where you (the public) come in. Won't you join us in helping to make the bandstand a reality?"

Make checks payable to The Friends of the Millbury Bandstand and mail to Charlotte L. Townsend, 364 Greenwood Street, Millbury, MA 01527.

Independence Day Parade Update

MILLBURY - The Lions Club's ninth annual Independence Day Parade will be held Sunday, June 27, at 1 p.m. This year's event is shaping up to be one of the best. The Melha Temple Shriners will be returning, and some of the top award-winning bands in the Northeast will be making their first visit to Millbury. The parade day festivities have become an event looked forward to and enjoyed by thousands throughout the area.

Due to an anticipated increase in media coverage, the Millbury Lions Club would like to invite all business and residential sites along the parade route to go all out in decorating their properties in the spirit of red, white and blue. Awards will be given to the best decorated property in each category (business and residential). The parade route remains the same as in the past. The awards will be given out at the common following the parade, where a huge outdoor barbecue will also be held throughout and after the parade.

Make your plans now to participate in a good old fashion Independence Day Celebration. Contact Len Horton at 865-4898 if you have any questions.

Celebrating 100 days of school

expertise to, in some cases, literally reconstruct these response vehicles.

One project presently underway will rebuild a small flatbed truck into a support vehicle carrying large tanks of compressed air which will be used to refill the air packs which the firefighters wear when entering burning buildings. The tanks hold about 20 minutes of air and must be refilled at the site. This truck will allow five tanks to be refilled at one time. The truck will also carry a large generator which will permit the illumination of the fire scene.

Peterson said this work and the previous reconstructions are the work of a very talented and committed department who want to provide their community with the best service they can while dealing with economic restraints.

The fire department will be presenting capital items for consideration at this year's Annual Town Meeting. Most of the requests will be for items deferred over the last few years. However, items like hose can only be deferred so long before something serious occurs. Peterson said that his department has exhausted all reasonable alternatives and must now educate the town to certain inescapable realities. He added that in spite of troubled economic times, the Sutton Fire Department has been eager to carry its share of the burden and will continue to do so, evidenced by the first rate equipment it has provided to the town at no cost.
